

Join us to reflect, remember and respond to our feelings surrounding the 10th year anniversary of the 9/11 attack. Our guide for this conversation will be Rabbi Steven Booth-Nadav, who has played a central role in the recent memorial events sponsored by the Abrahamic Initiative and Multifaith Denver.

Thursday September 22, 2011

(7:00-8:30 p.m.)

Saint John's Episcopal Cathedral
1350 Washington Street
Denver, CO

Free attendance – All are welcome

Rabbi Steven Booth-Nadav graduated from the Reconstructionist Rabbinical College in Philadelphia and has served as a rabbi in Delaware, Michigan and Colorado for 18 years. He is the founder and director of the new initiative "Wisdom House Denver: A Center for Multifaith Dialogue and Spiritual Inquiry." He is on the steering committee of the Religious Advisory Council at the University of Denver, and is a past steering committee member of the Abrahamic Initiative. He teaches Jewish meditation and Jewish Wilderness Spirituality, and is a graduate of the "Building Abrahamic Partnerships" program at Hartford Seminary. Rabbi Steve is also currently the rabbi of Congregation Har Mishpacha in Steamboat Springs, Colorado. Rabbi Steve is an immediate past board member of the Reconstructionist Rabbinical Association, is currently co-chairing a movement commission on Jewish identity, and is a founding member of Ohalah, the rabbinic association of the Jewish Renewal Movement. Rabbi Steve was the Project Manager for "9/11 Ten Years After: A Multifaith Response."